APPENDIX TWO – SUBJECT ACCESS REQUESTS EXEMPTIONS

INTRODUCTION

Individuals have the right under the Data Protection Act 2018 and Health Records Act 1990 subject to certain exemptions, to have access to their personal records that are held by Clinical Partnership (CP). This is known as a 'subject access request' (SAR). Requests may be received from members of staff, service users or any other individual who the company has had dealings with and holds data about that individual. This will include information held both electronically and manually and will therefore include personal information recorded within electronic systems, spreadsheets, databases or word documents and may also be in the form of photographs, x-rays, and audio recordings etc.

Clinical Partnership (CP) has developed this policy to guide staff in dealing with Subject Access Requests that may be received in line with the Legislation to promote transparency and openness and supports all individuals (service users and employees) when exercising their right to access.

The aim of this policy is to inform staff on, how to advise service users on how to make a subject access request, how to recognise a subject access request and know what action to take on receipt.

This procedure sets out the processes to be followed to respond to a subject access request. This is based on the Information Commissioner's Office Subject Access Code of Practice: ICO Subject Access Code of Practice

DEFINITIONS

Term	Definition
Data Protection Act 2018	The Data Protection Act updates our data protection laws for the digital age. It received Royal Assent in May 2018 and replaces the Data Protection Act 1998
Access to Health Records 1990	Access to Health Records Act 1990 act to establish a right of access to health records by the individuals to whom they relate and other persons; to provide for the correction of inaccurate health records and for the avoidance of certain contractual obligations; and for connected purposes
Personnel Records	Personnel records can be records in a computerised or in a manual form or a mixture of both. These can be held by our Human Resources.

ENGAGEMENT

This policy has been developed based on the knowledge and experience of the Information Governance team. It is derived from a number of national codes and policies which are considered as best practice and have been used across many healthcare organisations.

SCOPE

This policy is intended to cover all requests for access to records whether made internally or externally. Clinical Partnership (CP) involved the collection and use personal and / or special category information as defined in the Data Protection Act 2018.

PRINCIPLES

Up to date and accurately recorded information provides a platform for delivering high quality healthcare. Clinical Partnership (CP) will support appropriate and lawful access to information by:

- Providing support to service users, employees and other requestors through guidance and awareness
- to meet legal requirements, including requests from service users under subject access provisions of the Data Protection Act 2018 or the Access to Health Records 1990
- Promote transparency and openness when disclosing records
- To support service user's choice and control over the appropriate use of their personal or special category information and how it is processed
- Promote transparency and openness when disclosing records
- Provide assurance to regulatory bodies that individuals rights are able to be exercised

POLICY STATEMENT

Clinical Partnership (CP) is committed to ensuring that the highest standards when processing Access and Subject Access Requests (SAR'S) in a timely and lawful manner.

POLICY PURPOSE AND AIMS

What is a Subject Access Request?

A subject access request (SAR) is simply a written request made by or on behalf of an individual for the information about them, which is held by Clinical Partnership (CP). The Data Protection Legislation entitles all individuals to make requests for their own personal data to enable individuals to verify the lawfulness of how their information is being processed. An individual is not entitled to information relating to other people (unless they are acting on behalf of that person).

The request does not have to be in any particular form other than in writing, nor does it have to include the words 'subject access' or make any reference to the Data Protection Legislation. A SAR may be a valid request even if it refers to other legislation, such as the Freedom of Information Act 2000 (FOIA) and should therefore be treated as a SAR in the normal way. The applicant must be informed of how the application is being dealt, under which legislation free of charge, except where the request is manifestly unfounded or excessive.

Where an individual is unable to make a written request it is the Department of Health view that in serving the interest of patients it can be made verbally, with the details recorded on the individual's file.

Subject access is most often used by individuals who want to see a copy of the information an organisation holds about them. However, subject access goes further than this and an individual is entitled to be:

- told whether any personal data is being processed;
- given a description of the personal data, the reasons it is being processed, and whether it will be given to any other organisations or people;
- given a copy of the personal data; and
- given details of the source of the data (where this is available).

Some types of personal data are exempt from the right of subject access and so cannot be obtained by making a SAR. Information may be exempt because of its nature or because of the effect its disclosure is likely to have. There are also other restrictions on disclosing information in response to a SAR, for example where this would involve disclosing information about another individual.

How to recognise and action a Subject Access Request

In order for Clinical Partnership (CP) to action a subject access request the following must be received:

- The request must be made in writing (This may be by letter, fax, email, or even social media, such as facebook or twitter). It is important to note that responses to SAR requests must be returned by a secure methodology, i.e. social media must NOT be used to return information requested. However, where the applicant is not able to make the request in writing it can be received verbally and a record of the request made on the applicants file.
- Any fee levied, fees can only be levied where the request is deemed manifestly unfounded or excessive.
- Proof of identity of the applicant and/or the applicant representative, and proof of right of access to another person's personal information, by reasonable means (See Appendix).
- Sufficient information to be able to locate the record or information requested.
- All requests must be responded to without delay and at the latest within one month of receipt of the request. This time can be extended by a further 2 months where requests are complex or numerous. However, if this is the case you must inform the individual within one month of the receipt of the request and explain why the extension is necessary. If the request relates to, or includes information that should not be requested by means of a SAR (e.g. it includes a request for non-personal information) then, the request must be treated accordingly, e.g. as a FOI request where purely non-personal data is being sought or as two requests: one for the requester's personal data made under the DPA; and another for the remaining, non-personal information made under FOIA.

Any requests made for non-personal information must be forwarded to the Information Assurance Manager. It is important to consider the requested information under the right legislation. If personal data is mistakenly disclosed under FOIA to the world at large, this could lead to a breach of the data protection principles.

All SAR requests received must be forwarded to the relevant head of department, e.g. staff requesting access to personnel records must be sent to HR, without delay in order for it to be processed within the legal timescale.

The DPA does not introduce an exemption for requests that relate to large amounts of data, but you may be able to consider whether the request is manifestly unfounded or excessive.

Where requests are manifestly unfounded or excessive, in particular because they are repetitive, you can:

- Charge a reasonable fee taking into account the administrative costs of providing the information; or
- Refuse to respond

Where you refuse to respond you must explain to the individual, informing them of their right to complain to the supervisory authority and to a judicial remedy without undue delay and at the latest within one month.

Assisting and Advising Service Users on how to make a request.

Where an individual is verbally making a request you should advise that they will need to:

- Put the request in writing, detailing the information they are requesting and from which service to enable it to be located.
- Requesters do not have to tell you their reason for making the request or what they intend to do with the information requested, although it may help you to find the relevant information if they do explain the purpose of the request.
- A request is valid even if the individual has not sent it directly to the person who normally deals with such requests. So, it is important to ensure that you and your colleagues can recognise a SAR and deal with it in accordance with this procedure and forward immediately to the relevant service head.
- Advise the applicant to send the request to the appropriate head of service, and provide contact details.
- In order to comply with equality legislation, where an applicant is unable to put the request in writing assistance should be given to them to make the request verbally, best practice would be to document the request details in an accessible format for the applicant and request them to confirm the details are correct.
- Note that responses to requests should be made in a format requested by the applicant, therefore alternative formats may be needed e.g. braille.

Requests made about or on behalf of other individuals

General Third Party

A third party, e.g. solicitor, may make a valid SAR on behalf of an individual. However, where a request is made by a third party on behalf of another living individual, appropriate and adequate proof of that individual's consent or evidence of a legal right to act on behalf of that individual e.g. power of attorney must be provided by the third party.

If you think an individual may not understand what information would be disclosed to a third party who has made a SAR on their behalf, you may send the response directly to the individual rather than to the third party. The individual may then choose to share the information with the third party after having had a chance to review it.

Requests on Behalf of Children

Even if a child is too young to understand the implications of subject access rights, information about them is still their personal information and does not belong to anyone else, such as a parent or guardian. So, it is the child who has a right of access to the information held about them, even though in the case of young children these rights are likely to be exercised by those with parental responsibility for them.

Before responding to a SAR for information held about a child, you should consider whether the child is mature enough to understand their rights. If the clinician responsible for the child's treatment plan is confident that the child has the capacity to understand their rights and any implications of the disclosure of information, then child's permission should be sought to action the request.

The Information Commissioner has indicated that in most cases it would be reasonable to assume that any child that is aged 13 years or more would have the capacity to make a subject access request and should therefore be consulted in respect of requests made on their behalf.

The Caldicott Guardian or their nominated representative should also be consulted on whether there is any additional duty of confidence owed to the child or young person as it does not follow that, just because a child has capacity to make a SAR, that they also have capacity to consent to sharing their personal information with others as they may still not fully understand the implications of doing so.

What matters is that the child is able to understand (in broad terms) what it means to make a SAR and how to interpret the information they receive as a result of doing so. When considering borderline cases, the following should be taken into account:

- Where possible, the child's level of maturity and their ability to make decisions like this;
- The nature of the personal data;
- Any court orders relating to parental access or responsibility that may apply;
- Any duty of confidence owed to the child or young person;
- Any consequences of allowing those with parental responsibility access to the child's or young person's information. This is particularly important if there have been allegations of abuse or ill treatment;
- Any detriment to the child or young person if individuals with parental responsibility cannot access this information; and
- Any views the child or young person has on whether their parents should have access to information about them.

Requests in respect of Crime and Taxation e.g. from the Police or HMRC

Requests for personal information may be made by the above authorities for the following purposes:

- The prevention or detection of crime;
- The capture or prosecution of offenders; and
- The assessment or collection of tax or duty.

A formal documented request signed a senior office from the relevant authority is required before proceeding with the request. This request must make it clear that one of the above purposes is being investigated and that not receiving the information would prejudice the investigation.

These types of requests must be considered by a senior manager and the decision on whether to share the information or not documented before any action is taken. Advice can be sought from the Information Governance Team.

Court Orders

Any Court Order requiring the supply of personal information about an individual must be complied with unless there is a robust justification to decline it.

Responding to requests

It is essential that a log of all requests received is maintained, detailing:

- Date received
- Date response due (within one calendar month unless complex)
- Applicants' details,
- Information requested,
- Exemptions applied in respect of information not to be disclosed,
- Details of decisions to disclose information without the data subjects consent,
- Details of information to be disclosed and the format in which they were supplied,
- When and how supplied, e.g. Paper copy and postal method used to send them.

Determine whether the person's request is to be treated as a routine enquiry or as a subject access request. If you would usually deal with the request in the normal course of business, e.g confirming appointment times or details of public meetings planned then do so. The following are likely to be treated as formal subject access requests.

- Please send me a copy of my HR file or Medical Records.
- A solicitor acting on behalf of my client and request a copy of his medical records.
An appropriate authority is enclosed.
- The police state that they are investigating a crime and provide an appropriate form requesting information signed by a senior officer.

Ensure adequate proof of the identity of both the data subject and the applicant, where this is a third party is obtained before releasing information requested, this may be in the form of documentation as detailed at Appendix One.

Ensure adequate information has been received to facilitate locating the information requested. Locate the required information from all sources and collate it ready for review by an appropriate senior manager. This review is to ensure that the information is appropriate for disclosure, i.e. to ascertain whether any exemptions apply e.g. it does not contain information about other individuals, it is likely to cause harm or distress if disclosed, or is information to be withheld due to on-going formal investigations. Advice may be sought from the Information Governance Team.

In the case of requests for clinical records these should be reviewed by the Caldicott Guardian or a nominated representative who shall decide to what extent data can be disclosed or whether the request is to be refused.

Where information in respect of other individuals is contained within the information requested it should not be disclosed without the consent of that individual. However, information contained within the information requested was supplied by health professionals it may be disclosed without consent if considered appropriate.

Generally Clinical Partnership (CP) must provide a copy of the information free of charge. However, a 'reasonable fee' may be levied when a request is manifestly unfounded or excess, particularly if it is repetitive. The fee must be based on the administrative cost of providing the information.

Where it is ascertained that no information is held about the individual concerned, the applicant must be informed of this fact as soon as possible.

It must be determined whether the information is likely to change between receiving the request and sending the response. Routine on-going business additions and amendments may be made to the personal information after a request is received, however the information must not be altered as a result of receiving the request, even if the record contains inaccurate or embarrassing information, as this would be an offence under the Data Protection Act 2018.

Check whether the information collated contains any information about any other individuals and if so, consider:

- Is it possible to comply with the request without revealing information that relates to the third party?
- (Ensure that consideration is given what information the requestor may already have or get hold of that may identify the third party)

- Where it is not possible to remove third party identifiers you must consider the following.
 - Has the third party consented to the disclosure?
 - Is it reasonable, considering all the circumstances, to comply with the request without the consent of the third party?
 - (The following must be considered when trying to determine what reasonable circumstances are);
 - duty of confidence owed to the third party,
 - steps taken to try and obtain consent,
 - whether the third party is capable of giving consent, and
 - any express refusals of consent from the third party.
 - A record of the decision as to what third party information is to be disclosed and why should be made.

Consider whether you are obliged to supply the information, i.e. consider whether any exemptions apply in respect of:

- Crime prevention and detection, including taxation purposes,
- Negotiations with the requestor,
- Management Forecasts,
- Confidential References given by you,
- Information used in research, historical or statistical purposes; and
- Information covered by legal professional privilege.

If the information requested, is held by the organisation and exemptions apply then a decision must be made as to whether you inform that applicant that the information is held but is exempt from disclosure or whether you reply stating that no relevant information is held. A response in these circumstances must be carefully considered and applied as appropriate giving due consideration to the exemptions being applied as it may be appropriate to deny holding information if prejudicing on-going or potential investigations or undue harm or distress is to be avoided. NB. It may be necessary to reconsider this decision should a subsequent application be made and circumstances around the use of exemptions has altered.

If the information contains complex terms or codes, you must ensure that these terms and codes are explained in such a way that the information can be understood in lay terms.

Preparing the response:

- When the requested information is not held, inform the applicant in writing, as soon as possible, but in any case by the due date.
- A copy of the information should be supplied in a format agreed with the applicant for example if the request is received electronically, then the response should be returned in an electronic format. You have one calendar month to comply with the request starting from the date you receive all the information necessary to deal with the request and any fee that is required. It is an offence under the Data Protection Legislation and individuals can complain to the Information Commissioners Office or apply to a court if you do not respond within this time limit.

- NB Under no circumstances should original records be sent to the applicant.

Remote access to records: - Where possible, organisations should be able to provide remote access to a secure self-service system which would provide the individual with direct access to his or her information.

The right to obtain a copy of information or to access personal data through a remotely accessed secure system should not adversely affect the rights and freedoms of others.

Ensure that the information to be supplied is reviewed by an appropriate senior manager and written authorisation and / or agreement of exemptions applied is obtained for disclosure or non-disclosure of the information.

IMPLEMENTATION

This policy will be published on CP website and all staff will be made aware of its publication through communications and team meetings.

Breaches of this policy may be investigated and may result in the matter being treated as a disciplinary offence under the company procedures.

TRAINING AND AWARENESS

The Senior Management Team and line managers are responsible for ensuring that all staff are aware of the policy which will be available on the sharepoint.

MONITORING AND AUDIT

Performance against the DSPToolkit will be reviewed on an annual basis and used to inform the development of future procedural documents.

This standard will be reviewed on a regular basis, and in accordance with the following on an as and when required basis:

- legislative changes;
- good practice guidance;
- case law;
- significant incidents reported;

- new vulnerabilities; and
- changes to organisational infrastructure.

COMPLAINTS

If an individual or their representative is not satisfied with the outcome of their request, for example, if they feel information has been withheld or recorded incorrectly, or that they have not been allowed sufficient time to view the information, they should be informed of the options available to them to take further action.

In the first instance, the individual should be encouraged to attend an informal meeting with a view to addressing and resolving the issues locally with the Information Assurance Team.

An individual also has the option to escalate the matter to the Caldicott Guardian for review.

An individual can escalate the matter to the ICO using the following contact details:

The Information Commissioner's Office Wycliffe
House
Water Lane Wilmslow
Cheshire SK9 5AF

Tel: 01625 545 745
E-mail: mail@ico.gsi.gov.uk

POLICY REVIEW

The policy and procedure will be reviewed at least every three years by the company in conjunction with managers, and Trade Union representatives if appropriate, with changes made as required and the outcome published. Where review is necessary due to legislative change, this will happen immediately.

Audit and Governance Teams has delegated responsibility for monitoring and reviewing the policy and will report any concerns to the Governing Body.
